Forgotten Books, 2017. Hardback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from Bulletin Relative to Production of Distilled Spirits The material is prepared for fermentation by a process called mashing. After the mash has been placed in the fermenter, fermentation is developed by means of yeast; this may be added by the distiller (as is usually the case) or may be developed from yeasts which drop into the tubs from the air. After the fermentable material has been changed into alcohol the next step is to separate this alcohol in such strength that it can be used for whatever purpose intended. This process is called distillation. The different kinds of stills and steps in the process will be described later. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work.
