Excerpt from Report of the Work of the 18th Year; Of the Pacific Garden Mission: Ending September 15, 1895 Three hundred and sixty-five days has brought another anniversary, marking the most eventful history the Mission has ever recorded. For eighteen years the gospel message has sounded forth to reach some of the perishing multitude drifting aimlessly along the great thoroughfares of our city, and the Pacific Garden Mission has often proven a beacon light arresting their attention, and where the wayfaring mariner has found the haven of rest. Words fail to convey the wonderful demonstration of God s power as manifested nightly in the salvation of souls. The skeptic who tried to find consolation in some scientific theory of an unknown God, the drunkard who has resorted to every remedy that human skill or science has invented; the thief who has tried by all the powers of his being to be an honest man; the moralist who has tried to sooth his conscience that his good deeds will avail with God; all find, when under the convicting power of God s spirit, that nothing but the atoning blood of the Lord Jesus Christ can save from sin. The Mission still continues its work at 100 E. Van Buren Street. This consecrated spot has become sacred to thousands who have found it the birth-place to a better life, and have gone forth rejoicing, with the consciousness of sins forgiven.
