Reviews

It is fantastic and great. It is written in easy words and phrases instead of confusing. I am just delighted to explain how this is actually the best book I have ever read through during my individual life and might be the finest publication for ever.

NORTH CAROLINA MEDICAL JOURNAL, 1887, VOL. 19 (CLASSIC REPRINT) (PAPERBACK)DOWNLOAD

Forgotten Books, 2017. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . Excerpt from North Carolina Medical Journal, 1887, Vol. 19 The drainage with the hood flap is no better insured than it is with lateral ?aps. I propose, then, upon this occasion, to select the lateral tegumentary ?aps. Before proceeding to operate I will look to the instruments to be used. Never trust this entirely to your assistants. When you wish a knife, or a saw, or a forceps, or a ligature, ora tourniquet, these should all be at hand. A belief in modern antiseptic surgery leads one to be more particular as to all the details in opera tions, and the character of the instruments, dressings, etc. I cannot now go into the details of this matter, but will only say that I have great faith in certain cardinal features of antiseptic surgery. There must be cleanliness as to bands and person, as to instruments and sponges, absolute arrest of bleeding, security as to drainage, nice adjustment of the wound, proper support or rest of parts; ligatures and sutures should be antiseptic. As to the use of agents for killing or excluding germs, or for preventing decomposition of the in? amma tory products, I shall not pass an opinion, except to say that the use of many of these cannot be objectionable, as they do not oppose clean liness or act as irritants. I have a personal objection, however, to some of the strong solutions because of their effect upon my hands. I have for two seasons suffered much from this cause, and I am almost disposed, in cleansing wounds, to go back to pure water that has been boiled. Now we will do the operation Esmarch s bandage has been applied to enable...
