Createspace. Paperback. Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. 387 pages. Joab Tzur, architect and engineer, responds to UNESCOs call for innovative shelters for the homeless; their cry a billion brothers have no shelter! Jab designs a winning system and calls it Foldapod. From that beginning he develops a unique building mechanism for large column free spaces which cost a lot less than conventional building because they go up so quickly. Because DAIR Aeronautics urgently need assembly space for their new CloudCruzer jet liners, they invite Jab to present his portfolio. There he sees beautiful Dawn Tremont, aeronautical engineer and DAIR vice-president (Design) who is impressed by his work. His designs being so innovative and flexible, DAIR invites a professor of architecture to crit Jabs presentation. Art and technology clash. Words are exchanged and when a ruthless building contractor loses desperately needed work to Jabs system, he resorts to sabotage to show that Foldapod is not safe, This item ships from La Vergne,TN. Paperback.
